BAMBINO

XIX

Children, there's something going on here!

No wonder, because the new Bambino collection has thought of everything to make the little ones and the littlest ones feel at home. For example, dabs, stripes or small rainbows in bright, delicate water colours. This creates a relaxed atmosphere during the day and even allows the bravest night owl to relax in the evening. But it can get a little wild. At least when elephants, lions or zebras stop by the children's room. And they not only feel good between the filigree palm fronds, but also like to surround themselves with large flowers and small flowers in pastel pink, pale blue or light grey. A subtle colour composition that still pleases after a few years – and may gladly grow with you.

The image is a collage of various textile and fabric samples. In the top left, there is a white plush duck with a brown beak. Below it is a solid blue fabric. To the right of the blue fabric is a light-colored fabric with a large, abstract, curved shape in a dark brown or rust color. Further right is a pink fabric with a subtle, faint pattern. In the bottom right corner, there are several feathers with blue and white patterns and brown outlines. The word "Fabrics" is written in a dark green, sans-serif font in the center-right area of the image.

HOLLY

Dreamy and simply adorable, HOLLY cotton fabric with its playful broderie anglaise is reminiscent of little flowers. With its four wonderful colours, this fabric leaves nothing to be desired, as it looks good on any window. But garments and accessories can also be sewn quickly and easily with the sewing machine.

RAINBOW

“Somewhere over the rainbow...” - with this transparent Scherli fabric, you can introduce a wonderful rainbow motif into the children’s room in one of three different colour schemes. As the woven design with its typical fringed edge stands out wonderfully from the transparent base material in daylight, this Scherli fabric is very popular, especially as a curtain fabric.

POM POM

With POM POM, a classic is also being incorporated into the latest BAMBINO collection. With the Scherli process, fluffy dots can be found on the transparent base material in two new colours. Here, the typical fringes on the edge are extra long and are reminiscent of pompoms (hence the name). They provide every window with a carefree eye-catcher.
